VICE-CHANCELLOR'S MESSAGE

Sikkim University stands at the forefront of embracing the transformative National Education Policy (NEP) 2020. In alignment with NEP 2020's vision and the guidelines of the Learning Outcomes-based Curriculum Framework (LOCF) mandated by the UGC, we have undertaken a comprehensive revision of our curriculum across all departments. This initiative ensures a holistic educational experience that transcends traditional knowledge delivery, emphasizing the practical application of knowledge in real-world scenarios. The shift towards LOCF marks a pivotal change from teacher-centric to learner-centric education, fostering a more active and participatory approach to learning. Our updated curriculum clearly defines Graduate Attributes, Programme Learning Outcomes (PLOs), and Course Learning Outcomes (CLOs), setting clear objectives for our students to achieve. This revision is designed to enable a teaching-learning environment that supports the attainment of these outcomes, with integrated assessment methods to monitor and encourage student progress comprehensively.

A key innovation in our curriculum is the mandatory integration of Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs) through the SWAYAM platform, enhancing accessibility and the breadth of learning opportunities for students. Our approach encourages multidisciplinary studies through the curriculum while allowing for specialization. The curriculum embodies the policy's core principle of flexibility by enabling mobility for students, thereby allowing the exit and entry of students in the program.

I extend my heartfelt gratitude to our faculty, the Head of the Department, the Curriculum Development Committee members, the NEP coordinators, and the dedicated NEP Committee of Sikkim University for their relentless dedication to updating our curriculum. I appreciate Prof. Yodida Bhutia, the Chairperson, and all dedicated NEP Committee members for their thorough review and integration of LOCF and NEP components into our curriculum.

To our students, I convey my best wishes as we embark on this journey with our updated and inclusive curriculum, aiming not only to enrich their academic knowledge but also to nurture their personal growth, critical thinking, and ability to adapt and innovate in an ever-changing world.

Best wishes,

Prof. Avinash Khare
Vice Chancellor
Sikkim University

PREAMBLE

The MA Programme in Mass Communication at Sikkim University started in 2010 during the institute's early phase of expansion. The first syllabus was developed by a Curriculum Development Committee comprising prominent academicians and professionals from the industry. With a blend of theory and practice in the field, the modular syllabus sought to provide students with skill-oriented training as well as build an understanding of the underpinning ideas and theories that explain the skills. The syllabus was subsequently made in unit structure and revised in 2013 and modified further in 2015, 2017, 2018, 2019.

The current revision of the existing syllabus was necessitated because the periodic updating was overdue and also due to the University's implementation of New Education Policy (NEP) 2020 from the academic session 2023-24. A syllabus review committee comprising of the Department's faculty members and three external members— two senior academics and one senior professional from the industry with academic experience — revisited the current syllabus.

This syllabus marks a sharp departure from its earlier versions. While keeping the spirit and the intent of the programme, the current 84-credit syllabus takes forward the key thrust areas of the NEP 2020 and offers multiple choices to the students. While students have to take seven core course and two value added courses from the subject domain, the programme offers various options they can choose from the basket of Elective (i.e., Specialisation) courses, Open (i.e., Interdisciplinary) courses, Skill Enhancement courses, Research and Production courses. Thus, in light of the NEP, nine Elective courses and two Open courses are on offer. Skill Enhancement courses find space for the first time in the syllabus; students are offered four Skill Enhancement courses. These courses complement the professional courses and will enhance the students' professional competencies as they enter various sectors of the media and communication profession.

Drawing upon key concepts in social sciences, communication studies, technology studies and developments in the media environment, the MA programme in Mass Communication profiles and contextualises the changes in the working of the media that arise as much from the proliferation of new technologies as from the shifting trajectory of the media industry. The course necessitates an interdisciplinary approach with communication as the reference point.

POST GRADUATE ATTRIBUTES

Post Graduate attributes include disciplinary knowledge and understanding in the subject and generic skills that students would acquire and demonstrate on completion of the course. Following are the attributes that students undergoing the PG programme would be expected to inculcate during the course:

PGA1: Disciplinary Knowledge: Acquire a comprehensive understanding of the theories, concepts, and practices within the field of mass communication. Develop a strong foundation in specialized areas of mass communication, enabling learners to possess extensive knowledge about the historical, social, cultural, and economic factors that shape the media landscape.

PGA2: Advanced Communication Skills: Refined and enhanced communication skills, demonstrating proficiency in oral, written, and digital communication. Capable of crafting compelling and effective messages across various media platforms.

PGA3: Critical Thinking, Problem-Solving & Communication: Ability to critically analyze and evaluate complex issues, information and challenges in mass communication. This involves presenting logical arguments, supporting claims with evidence, and engaging in constructive debates and discussions. Capability of developing innovative solutions, evaluating different perspectives, and making informed decisions.

PGA4: Research and Inquiry Skills: Exhibit a curiosity for new knowledge and demonstrate the capability to engage in inquiry processes. Adept at critically analyzing media, conducting research, and applying theoretical frameworks to examine media phenomena. Skilled in identifying problems, formulating questions, data collection, analyzing data and interpreting the results.

PGA5: Strategic Communication: Develop and implement communication plans and campaigns for diverse audiences. Skilled in identifying communication objectives, target audiences, and selecting appropriate channels and tactics.

PGA6: Digital Media Proficiency: Demonstrate expertise in using digital tools and platforms for content creation, distribution, and engagement. Familiarize with social media strategies, data analytics, and emerging technologies in the media landscape.

PGA7: Ethical and Responsible Communication: Understanding the ethical considerations and responsibilities associated with mass communication. Navigate ethical dilemmas, adhere to professional standards, and promote integrity, diversity, and social responsibility in communication practices.

PGA8: Cross-Cultural and Global Communication: Demonstrate cultural competence and be capable of communicating effectively across diverse cultural and international contexts. Understand the influence of culture on media practices and be sensitive to cultural nuances.

PROGRAMME LEARNING OUTCOMES

The Programme Learning Outcomes (PLOs) for post graduate course in Mass Communication are as follows:

PLO 1: Develop overall insights into the field of media and communication with an ability to connect communication with other disciplines keeping the former as the reference point.

PLO 2: Demonstrate advanced knowledge and understanding on the theories, concepts, and practices with relation to various factors that shape the media landscape.

PLO 3: Develop interest in various career options in the field of media and communication sector and the ability to make informed decisions about career choice.

PLO 4: Train in professional skills for entry-level industry jobs in various sectors of media and communication.

PLO 5: Equip with fundamental communication competencies that will enable learners to be productive, effective and successful in the professional workplace.

PLO 6: Develop interest in the further study of communication and explore possibilities of pursuing research degrees in the field.

PLO 7: Develop fundamental journalistic skills encompassing reporting, research, and storytelling across various media platforms.

PLO 8: Develop problem solving skills by applying specific strategies for effectiveness solution and communication.

PLO 9: Demonstrate advanced knowledge and understanding of the media research.

PLO 10: Participate in democratic debates and discussions.

SWAYAM

Students may earn up to 40 percent of the total credits of the programme from SWAYAM (Study Webs of Active–Learning for Young Aspiring Minds). The selection of the course(s) from SWAYAM is subject to their availability during the particular period and at least 75 percent content similarity to the existing courses in the department. The credits and the grade earned by the students in the particular course will be transferred from their ABC and added in their mark statement. SWAYAM Mentor of Department will assist and facilitate the identification of the relevant courses by the students every semester.

SEMESTER-I

MAS-C-501 INTRODUCTION TO COMMUNICATION

Semester: First Semester

Course Level: 500

Total Marks:100

L+ T+ P: 3+1+0 = 4 Credits

Lecture: 45Hrs + Tutorial: 15 Hrs + Practical: 0 Hrs

Course Description:

This course introduces basic concepts, models and theories informed by communication and allied disciplines. It is assumed that the field of Communication is an interdisciplinary field of inquiry. Understanding and engaging with the field of communication is a recent one. This paper will introduce basic concepts that transcend compartmentalised view of understanding discipline and intends to engage students across disciplines to meaning making of the field. Through readings, discussions, case studies, and assignments, students will develop a critical understanding of the theoretical frameworks that underpin communication practices and research.

Course Learning Outcomes:

By the end of the course, students will be able to:

CLO 1: Explain the basic nature of communication and its process

CLO 2: Analyse and evaluate different communication models

CLO 3: Develop a critical perspective on the role of communication theories in shaping our understanding of communication phenomena.

CLO 4: Analyse communication from philosophical perspectives

Unit I: Basic Concepts of Communication

- 1.1 Transportation/Transmission
- 1.2 Culture and communication
- 1.3 Material and symbolic
- 1.4 Information and Communication
- 1.5 Circulation and Flow

Unit II: Communication Models

- 2.1 Linear models – From Rhetoric to Technology (Aristotle's Model, The Shannon-Weaver Model)
- 2.2 Processual model (From effect to Process)
- 2.3 Transactional Model
- 2.4 Spiral of Silence
- 2.5 Cybernetics

Unit III: Communication Theories

- 3.1 Media effects

- 3.2 Structure-Function
- 3.3 Political Economy
- 3.4. Ideology
- 3.5. Semiotics

Unit IV: Philosophical Orientations

- 4.1 Positivism
- 4.2 Phenomenology
- 4.3 Hermeneutics
- 4.4 Structuralism/Post Structuralism
- 4.5 Post Modernism

Suggested Teaching Learning Strategies

- Lecture-cum discussion
- Presentations by students on selected topics.
- Guided readings and discussions on theories and models
- Philosophical debates and group discussions
- Discussions on real world media and communication scenarios

Assessment Framework

Assessment	Written Modes	Oral Modes	Integrated Modes
Formative Marks: 50 (25+25 marks)	Class Test, Assignment	Authentic Problem Solving, Group discussion	Presentation

MAS-C-503
COMMUNICATION & MEDIA HISTORY IN INDIA

Semester: First Semester

Course Level: 500

Total Marks:100

L+ T+ P: 3+1+0 = 4 Credits

Lecture: 45Hrs + Tutorial: 15 Hrs + Practical: 0 Hrs

Course Description

The course acknowledges that communication and history are deeply intertwined— while one changes, the other is affected. Making a distinction between media history and history of media, the course privileges the former over the latter. While media history is about the act, agencies and institutions that result in the emergence and sustenance of the media, history of media centres around the medium— the artefact, and is thus narrow in its scope of inquiry. The first unit sets a framework for the course by posing a set of issues and polemics about how communication and history engage with each other over time. The subsequent units deal with actor, agency and institution of communication in India, their evolution and their roles they performed in the society.

Course Learning Outcomes:

By the end of the course, the students will be able to:

CLO 1: Appraise the strong linkage between communication and history;

CLO 2: Describe India's communication and media history in the context of the larger theoretical framework for studying communication and history;

CLO 3: Appreciate the role and contribution of various media in India in India's political struggle and change; and

CLO 4: Demonstrate an ability to critically explain the present media scenario in India as either a continuum of or break away from the past.

Unit I: History and Communication: the level playing field

- 1.1 History of communication history
- 1.2 Grand theories, periodisation and historical narratives
- 1.3 Historicity and communication
- 1.4 Historiography and communication

Unit II: Early history of communication in India

- 2.1 Communication before the printing press
- 2.2. The printing press and the public sphere
- 2.3. Newspapers, public opinion and colonial governance
- 2.4 Archive, technology and media

Unit III: Press and political mobilization

- 3.1. English versus vernacular press
- 3.2. Print and nationalism
- 3.3. Press in post-1947
- 3.4. Newspaper revolution in post-1977

Unit IV: Media and social change

- 4.1. Cinema and change
- 4.2. Radio and development
- 4.3. Television and social transformation
- 4.4. Cassette culture/video magazine

Suggested Teaching Learning Strategies

- Class lecture-cum discussion
- Online recorded video lectures
- Online lectures by identified experts
- Guided readings, discussions, and group discussions
- Presentations by students on selected topics.

Assessment Framework

- 1.3 Elements of Research: Concepts and constructs, Definitions- conceptual and operational, Assumptions, Variables and types of variables, Nature and level of measurement, Concepts of reliability and validity,
- 1.4 Steps in research process: Problematising a research area, finalising the research topic, Literature review, formulating study objectives, research questions, hypotheses, Basic format of a thesis or dissertation, Referencing and bibliography.
- 1.5 Ethical Dimensions of research.

Unit II: Research Designs & Approaches-I

- 2.1 Research Designs: Concept and types of research designs.
- 2.2 Sampling: Population and sample, Probability and non-probability sampling— types and sampling procedures, Sample size issues, Sampling error.
- 2.3 Experimental Research Design: Solomon Four Group- Post Test Only Control Group.
- 2.4 Survey Research: Advantages and disadvantages, constructing questions, Questionnaire design, Pretesting, Gathering data.
- 2.5 Content analysis: Definition, uses and limitations, Steps in content analysis— defining unit, construct categories, quantification system, training of coders, coding the content, Inter-coder reliability, data analysis, drawing inferences.

Unit III: Research Designs & Approaches-II

- 3.1 Qualitative research: Field observations, Focus group.
- 3.2 Quantitative research: How to use SPSS.
- 3.3 Ethnography: Grounded theory
- 3.4 Research in print media
- 3.5 Social media research

Unit IV: Data Processing and Application

- 4.1 Coding and Tabulation, Analysis and Interpretation
- 4.2 Frequency Distribution, Measures of central tendency and dispersion, Normal Curve, Hypothesis Testing.
- 4.3 Longitudinal research: Census.
- 4.4 What to Research and How to Research
- 4.5 Preparing a Research Proposal

Suggested Teaching Learning Strategies

- Class lecture-cum discussion
- Online recorded video lectures
- Online lectures by identified experts
- Guided readings and group discussions of select case studies
- Presentations by students on selected topics.

Assessment Framework

INDIAN CONTRIBUTION TO COMMUNICATION

Semester: Fourth Semester

Course Level: 600

Total Marks:100

L+ T+ P: 3+1+0 = 4 Credits

Lecture: 45Hrs + Tutorial: 15 Hrs + Practical: 0 Hrs

Course Description:

The idea of communication has endured since time immemorial ever since human civilization began. However, theorizing and developing a perspective to understand communication is recent. This is particularly true of India. This is not to deny that the idea and practice of communication in the cultural and religious life of the people within the overall Indian knowledge systems were rich, effervescent and extensive. The course seeks to look at some of the critical contributions of India to the field by examining ideas, practices and phenomena of communication in ancient, medieval and modern India as evidenced by credible scholarly works that sought to document and scrutinize these. Such an engagement helps us strengthen and problematize communication studies in India and opens up an Indian way of engaging with communication.

Course Learning Outcomes:

By the end of the course, students will be able to:

- CLO 1: Explain some of the essential tenets of communication in ancient India, and appraise the richness and strengths of the ideas and practice of communication in India of the past
- CLO 2: Describe communication practices in pre-colonial and colonial India, and critique how the intervention of media transformed the culture and religious life of the people in India
- CLO 3: Apply the contributions of key Indian figures like Gandhi and Ambedkar to communication and relate their relevance in the contemporary Indian and global context
- CLO 4: Appraise different non-conventional areas of communication otherwise normally beyond the mainstream study of the field.
